09-12-2005

Raleigh, N.C. – L. Stephens & Associates announced their “Tackle Technology and Win” training programs on computer applications will be available starting September 29th, 2005. The classes will allow participants to learn various computer applications via the web as opposed to a classroom or training center.

The classes, one hour each, will cover such applications such as Excel, PowerPoint and Access. Participants will receive reference materials in addition to being able to follow along with what is being delivered during the class. Each class will be designed to relate to specific tasks in order to increase the understanding of applicability.

“All that you need to enjoy this convenient training is your personal computer and your telephone,” said Lorraine Stephens, president of L. Stephens & Associates. “No commute, no crowded classrooms. Classes are conveniently delivered to you at your home or office via your computer,” she added.

L. Stephens & Associates, Inc., The Education and Technology Group, provides training to educators, who will be integrating computer applications into their curriculum; to administrative staff and teachers who will be using personal computer applications to accomplish their tasks and increase their productivity; to companies and small businesses, who are looking to increase the productivity of their staff; and to individuals who have a desire to understand the use of personal computers and personal computer applications.
